Respiratory Equipment

"I appreciate the fact that Procure provides regular checkups, is available to answer questions and concerns, or other information as needed. Overall, I am very happy with the level of care I receive from Procure"

- Procure NIV patient
since 2017

Non-Invasive Ventilator (NIV)

Break the downward spiral of declining condition and costly repeated hospital admissions for your high-needs respiratory and neuromuscular patients.

NIVs have been proven to reduce hospital readmissions by guaranteeing tidal volume and comfort in ways bilevel PAP therapy cannot. This will help patients blow off CO<sub>2</sub>, ease the patients' work of breathing, and allow them an improved quality of life.

Patients can achieve new levels of freedom as NIVs have up to 14 hours of battery life, allowing patients to have a full day away from the home while maintaining their respiratory health.

Patients on NIVs are monitored by our respiratory therapists and receive unparalleled levels of support on their path to better health.

Respiratory Therapist Support

We take pride in not just the equipment we can provide your patients, but also our clinical staff who will be working with your patients in their homes. The patients who most need in-home support will receive personalized care plans, with a focus on preventative therapy.

- Remote data monitoring
- In-Home Pulmonary Program (6-minute walks, spirometry, medication instruction, etc.)
- Communication between our clinicians and your staff to coordinate respiratory care

MyAirvo2

Aerosol Machine and Trach Supplies

Apnea Monitor

Airway Clearance

---

Clear airways are critical for ventilatory-compromised patients. For many patients, a weakened ability to remove secretions increases the chance of respiratory infections. Procure provides and services two airway clearance options to allow you to best match your patients to the device that meets their needs.

AffloVest

High frequency chest wall oscillation (HFCWO) is proven airway clearance therapy that benefits patients with:

- Bronchiectasis
- Cystic Fibrosis
- Neuromuscular Diseases
- Other disorders that affect the diaphragm

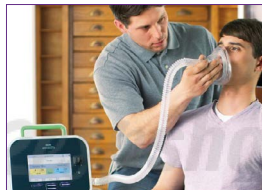

The Afflovest is a portable, completely self-contained device that allows your patient true freedom while receiving airway clearance therapy. Patients are not forced to plug into a wall or compressor with tubes that restrict movement. The AffloVest will fit patients with torso measurements from 18 inches up to 65 inches.

Mechanical In-exsufflation Devices:

- Provides effective yet gentle, non-invasive secretion clearance for patients with neuromuscular diseases causing significant impairment of their chest wall and/or diaphragmatic movement, leaving them unable to clear their retained secretions.
- Detachable battery allows for a full day of therapy between charges.
- Effective for both trached and non-invasively ventilated patients.

Suction Device

Cough Assist

Nebulizers

Procare Home Medical has been a leader in PAP therapy for Alaskans for over 20 years. We support not only CPAP, APAP, and bilevel PAP therapy, but we have the clinical staff required to handle more complex devices like bilevel PAP S/T and ASV as well.

- Patients can be set up individually or in group settings.
- All patients are assigned a sleep coach, who guides them through their path to compliance.
- There is a wide selection of masks and the latest technology in getting the right fit for your patient.
- An established phone training program ensures patients who live in remote areas are set up for success.

Over 70% of our patients have achieved compliance with therapy since 2017.

Full-face mask

Nasal pillows

Nasal mask
